

Tara Largo

Tribal Affiliation: Navajo

Navajo Artist Tara Largo spent seven years as a teacher before beginning her second career as an artist. She creates art utilizing intarsia woodworking, a process using wood inlay to create patterns and depth. Largo lives in New Mexico and owns her own woodworking company called "G'Shee & Frames." Native designs and symbols from her New Mexico roots influence a majority of Largo's work.

"Living in the southwest and being surrounded by my traditional landscape is a pleasure to share my interpretation with others that are not from here so they can enjoy it also."

1. "Strength and Bravery" / wood inlay, framed / 26.5"h x 25"w
2. "Three Sisters" / wood inlay, framed / 36"h x 40"w
3. "Prayer Messenger" / wood inlay, framed / 34.5"h x 17"w

